

EDUCATOR DENIES COLLEGES CROWD PROFESSIONS YET

Former Northwestern "U" Head Says There Is Still Plenty of Room.

"There are not too many students in college today," said Dr. Harris, "with some educators who say there are many students in college who ought not to be there; but there are also many young people not in college who ought to be."

"I favor any sorting-out process which is entirely just, but none has yet proved to be so. The large number of young people in college today does not necessarily mean that they are crowding the professions. The great shortage of doctors, dentists and teachers and ministers disproves this, although law may be an exception."

President L. H. Merrill of Boston University declared that instead of trying to cut down the number of college students the colleges should be wider open than they have been.

The problem, he said, is to make provision for the young people who are not able to get an education and who are amply qualified to benefit by it.

PRINCE CAETANI TO BE ITALIAN AMBASSADOR

Became War Hero by Knowledge Gained in U. S.

ROME, Nov. 9 (Associated Press).—Prince Gaetano Caetani, a Deputy of the Chamber, has been appointed Italian Ambassador to Washington.

Prince Caetani, an officer of the Engineers during the war, achieved fame by an exploit carried out through practical knowledge gained in engineering studies in the United States. He laid the mine that blew up the whole top of the Mountain Col di Lana, from which the Austrians threatened the Italian lines.

Throughout the war the Prince distinguished himself and was three times decorated for bravery.

Hats of fine felt Le Dernier Cri

At the recent important football games hats of felt, worn with coats of fur or cloth, were the striking note in smart millinery.

Not only the strictly tailored type was in evidence, but there were hosts of stunning shapes trimmed with fur, flowers or ribbon.

On Friday the Gray Millinery Salon will present an interesting collection of felt hats, representative of the many different types worn at the games, in the season's smartest colors.

Three-piece Suits

Fur-trimmed
For Miss 14 to 20

—$69.50
—$79.50
—$89.50

Unusual Suits
at these prices

Some of the suits were specially purchased originally, the rest have been reduced for this occasion.

Marleen and fine velours de laine—in every fashion approved by Miss 14 to 20.

Two models—each one more effective than the last. In several shades of brown, both light and dark, in navy blue and black—with fox, caracul and squirrel for collars and sometimes for cuffs.

Note:—the bodies of the matching frocks in most instances were designed to our order—therefore they are smart!
Second Floor, Old Building

Printed Crepe de Chine, $2.95 yd.

In new patterns

The first showing of two new designs, one rather large, the other smaller, printed in Oriental colorings in nine combinations of burnt orange and red, jade green and violet, red, blue, rose and purple tones.

The Oriental touch is unmistakable in these designs and in their color expression but has been somewhat toned down and modified for practical use.

The crepe de chine is firm in weave and the designs are clearly printed to give a warm and at the same time crisp effect. Silk Rotterdam.

Street Floor, Old Building.

$1.25 to $2 Ribbons for 85c yd.

6 to 9 in. wide. Shaded taffeta ribbons with fancy edges, several colors.

Broadened ribbons in the fashionable Oriental colorings, smart for trimming and for bags.

Broadened ribbons, bright flowers on soft light grounds, lovely for children's clothes and hair-ribbons, and for gift bags. Main Aisle, Street Floor, Old Building

Parisienne Corsets

New Imported Fabrics

The graceful, slender-line silhouette sponsored by smart women everywhere reaches the acme of expression in the new Parisienne Corsets, created exclusively for the John Wanamaker Store in New York.

Slip-on and open front styles, suitable for figures of all types, made in America by a leading French corsetiere, of lovely French fabrics—cotton and silk figured brocades, silk striped coutil, silk figured broche and broadened silk tulle. All the new and clever ideas presented by Parisienne corsetieres are adapted to meet the requirements of the American woman. Light boning makes the corsets very supple, and elastic gorges are worked in most skillfully to insure absolute comfort.

Boudoir Lamps

$8.50 to $65

Of the gayest of French pottery in designs in which the youthful spirit of modern French art has thrown off all restraint and run riot in bright color. The effects are bizarre yet delightful, as what comes from Paris is not?

Silk shades painted by hand to match the bright designs of the pottery cause these lamps to give more than the ordinary spot of color in a dressing or sitting room.

Charming Negligees of soft corduroy

The thought of cold winter mornings holds no dread for the woman who has wisely included in her wardrobe a pretty negligee of warm corduroy. Flattering and very comfortable, the price tags they wear make them extremely practical for every day use.

Straight-line breakfast coats of corduroy, in coral, French blue or violet, lined through-out in dotted silk mull of soft color, $7.95.

Wrappy lounging robes of wide wale corduroy, in French blue or rose, with full linings of white china silk, $10.75.

Third Floor, Old Building

The Favored Soft Pile Fabrics

Marcella, Geronia and other well-known materials which have earned their place in fashion by their beauty and durability.

For coats, wraps, capes, suits and even for coat frocks—used alone or with fur, the deep lustrous velvety weaves lend themselves gracefully to the new drapings, circular or smartly slender lines.

In all the season's best shades and in black. $6.50 to $15 yard.

Other Coatings and Suitings
Camel's Hair Cloth—in natural color or combined with a contrasting color in black design. $4.50 to $15 yard.

A Lanvin Success--the inspiration of the Charming Frocks

In Paisley or plain crepe de chine

Lanvin made the original of fine crepe, in black with her own Lanvin green in heavier crepe, for the fascinating bands set off with gold thread.

This frock cost us $287 to import!

The Women's Fashion Salon has copied it now at $67.50!

In exquisite Paisley patterned crepe de chine, in dull greens and browns, in brilliant blues, in soft light browns, with Lanvin green, bright blue or caramel bands, always with a vivid touch to edge the bandings. Also in fine black crepe de chine, with sapphire blue, Lanvin green or eveque purple bands.

An Achievement!

For while this is one of the most successful models we brought from Paris, the quantity of the material—the skirt is pleated, you know—and the careful workmanship required to give it the correct silhouette, make it an achievement at $67.50. Second Floor, Old Building

Children's Book Week at Wanamaker's Opens Monday

The purpose of Children's Book Week, to be celebrated all over the country, is to bring the parents and teachers of children the best literature for their leisure reading. Many parents—and teachers, too—are familiar with the standard classics for children but are unacquainted with the scores of beautifully conceived books, well written and charmingly illustrated that are new this year. We, therefore, suggest in advance of Children's Book Week, a visit to the Wanamaker Book Store, where you may see all these new books and many of the old classics in new editions, which with modern illustrations and color-plates give them new life and interest. Some Suggestions:

For Little Tots

Whitefoot, the Wood Mouse, by Thornton W. Burgess. Third volume of the Green Forest series. Exciting adventures of a mouse which will interest all little tots four years old. Color plates. $1.50.

A Little Child's Book of Stories with color plates by Jessie Wilcox Smith. Compiled by Ada M. and Eleanor L. Skinner, both of whom know what stories little children adore. Fine, big print. $1.50.

Books for Girls

The Flower of Fortune, written and delightfully illustrated by A. A. Milne. The story has for its background Dutch-English old New York shortly after the English came. $1.75.

Red Robin, by Jane Abbott. A story of a Connecticut girl who, winning her life as an heiress, makes friends with a mill worker and becomes involved in a strike of the millhands. $1.75.

Books for Boys

The Boy Scouts' Year Book, published for the Boy Scouts of America. Edited by Franklin K. Matthews, with messages, articles and contributions by the President of the United States, Dan Beard, John D. Rockefeller, William T. Hornaday and a score of others. Illustrated. $2.50.

Cousin of the Eight, by Ralph Henry Barbour. In which a boy at school wins his way to fame and success. $1.75.

For Boys and Girls

Banternall, by Ernest Thomas Seton, with 100 drawings by the author. $2.00.

Poems of American Patriotism. Chosen by Braden Matthews, illustrated by N. C. Wyeth. Beginning with Emerson's "Boston" and Longfellow's "Paul Revere's Ride," the collection of seventy of the best American patriotic poems known to "The Unknown Soldier," by Angela Morgan. Fine, large print, color plates. $1.50.

Real Americans, by Mary H. Wade. Tells about great Americans in a readable style which all boys and girls will enjoy. Edward Everett Hale. Herbert Hoover. Theodore Roosevelt. Leonard Wood. Mark Twain and John Burroughs. The six men selected as best embodying the high qualities of certain fine type of American men. $1.65.

The Voyages of Doctor Doolittle, by Hugh Lofting. Delicious nonsense which not only boys and girls, but fathers and mothers will chuckle over. Dr. Doolittle takes a journey to Spiddermonkey Island, where the most amazing events take place. $2.50.

For Every Child

The Children's Bible—Selections from Old and New Testaments, translated and arranged by Henry A. Sherman, head of the Department of Religious Literature of Charles Scribner's Sons, and Charles Foster Kent, Woolsey Professor of Biblical Literature in Yale University. Fine color-plate illustrations. $3.50.
